Curves for Charity

Proceeds from the sales will benefit Hospice of Michigan.

For more information, call the McNallys at 734-941-0900. □

Board Approves "Limited Schools of Choice" Plan for Halecreek, Merriman Elementaries

A limited "Schools of Choice" plan for two of the district's six elementary schools was unanimously approved by the Romulus Board of Education on July 24. The plan calls for Halecreek and Merriman – both located on the district's south side, between Eureka and Pennsylvania – to accept enrollment of a small number of students from outside the schools' normal attendance area.

Halecreek will have five openings in every grade except the third, which will have two, while Merriman will have two openings in each grade.

"We are going to do a test run on the Schools of Choice program in Romulus and see how it works out this year," said Carl Weiss, the new superintendent of the Romulus Community Schools. "We need to do this to help us make efficient use of our district's outstanding physical facilities."

Among those who may be most likely to take advantage of the Schools of Choice program are the residents of Romulus's new Highland Estates subdivision, located off Pennsylvania between Middlebelt and Inkster roads in the Halecreek School neighborhood.

"In the past, the district has received many requests from Highland Estates residents to attend Halecreek and Merriman schools," said RCS spokesperson Dick Kruse. "The residents are particularly interested in the Romulus Community Schools' leading-edge technology program, which provides superior technological literacy opportunities with one computer for every two students."

"They are also interested in the district's cooperative arrangement with the Romulus Boys & Girls Club, which, for just $30 per year, provides weekday child care until 8:30 p.m. for children age six and over," he added.

An additional advantage to adopting the Limited Schools of Choice program is the opportunity to garner nearly $400,000 in additional revenue from the State of Michigan, which gives Romulus about $8,500 per student per year. The money would be a welcome addition to district coffers, which have been feeling the strain of rising operations costs.

The enrollment period for the Romulus Community Schools' new "Limited Schools of Choice" program will be from Monday, August 7,

Meeting Will Explain Schools of Choice

On Wednesday, August 2, the Romulus Community Schools will host a Community Meeting for residents who would like to know more about the district's new K–6 Limited Schools of Choice program, which will allow nonresidents to apply for admission to Halecreek and Merriman elementary schools.

The meeting – to be held in the district's administrative offices (located at 36540 Grant Road) beginning at 6 p.m. – will feature a presentation by new superintendent Carl Weiss, who will explain the rationale for this year's plan and answer residents' questions.

Members of the Romulus Board of Education will also be present at the meeting. □ through Friday, August 25, 2006.

For further information, please call the district's administrative offices at 734-532-1610. □

Letter to the Editor

Romulus Reader Says Taylor Post Office Doesn't Always Deliver Good Service

To the Editor:

Not long ago, I received a letter from the Taylor Post Office. It said, "Stamps delivered to your door. Quick, Easy, Convenient."

Since poor health makes it difficult for me to leave my home, I thought I would take advantage of the offer. On July 11, I left my order, including my check for the proper amount, in my mailbox for the mail carrier to pick up.

After nearly a week, having received no reply, I contacted the Taylor Post Office on July 17, July 18, and July 19, and received the same answer: "We are just now filling your order; we had to order more rolls of 39-cent stamps."

I did finally receive the stamps on July 20 – nine days later.

Never again will I deal with the Taylor Post Office, which seems to be unconcerned with delivering good service along with the mail. From now on,

I'll be doing all my business at the Romulus branch on Hunt Street – which, for the past 30 years, has always had what I need.

Michigan's Trash Policy Must Change

By State Representative Hoon-Yung Hopgood, 22nd District

Michigan is a beautiful state nestled in a quintet of lakes. Our two scenic peninsulas give us our identity. We have an abundance of pristine rivers. We have an enormous amount of scenic landscape. And we have an abundance of landfill space that makes us the cheapest dumping ground in the nation.

For two decades, waste companies have flocked to our state because it is virtually free for them to do their filthy business. Trash now comes to Michigan from far and wide. Trash has turned our beloved state into the nation's third largest importer of garbage. Our Great Lakes State is quickly becoming the Great Waste State. Unchecked, this invasion of trash will ruin our way of life.

Instead of luring jobs, Michigan is attracting trash trucks. More than 400 of them come into our state every day from Canada, shredding our roads and ruining our neighborhoods. In 2005, around 6.2 million tons of trash surged into Michigan from outside our borders, according to the Department of Environmental Quality. That's 100,000 tons more than we got in 2004, and the amount is not likely to go down anytime soon because Republicans lifted a ban on landfill expansion.

After the ban was lifted, at least five landfills applied for expansion, including Pine Tree Acres in Macomb County, Woodland Meadows in Wayne County, Southeast Berrien County Landfill, Whitefeather Landfill in Bay County and Carleton Farms Landfill in nearby Sumpter Township.

The Department of Environmental Quality repeatedly asked the Legislature to reinstate the ban, which would have given the department legal authority to prevent landfill expansion. The Republican-led Legislature refused. Now that the ban is lifted, and since the Carleton Farms Landfill plans to move forward with its expansion, others will follow. That means our communities will be at risk as trash trucks roll through our streets, tearing up the infrastructure, potentially spilling hazardous waste, and even killing motorists. Look at the history of the trash industry.

In 2002 and 2003, several trucks from Canada were caught with radioactive medical waste, blood, and even a ton of marijuana hidden among their cargo of garbage bound for Michigan landfills.

In February 2005, a Canadian trash truck dumped human waste in Flat Rock. A Canadian trash truck killed two men in Huron Township in November 2005. On March 2, a trash truck in Huron Township dumped human waste on Will Carleton Road. And these were just the trucks that were caught or stopped. Imagine the risks posed by the trucks that are not caught or stopped.

Canadian and out-of-state trash degrades our communities. It harms our natural resources. It threatens our health and our way of life.

And it must be stopped.

House Democrats have been fighting to pass anti-trash legislation that would ban landfills from expanding until 2011, but Republicans refused. Michigan has an estimated 17 years of landfill space left for citizens in the state – but that space is being gobbled up by garbage from other states and Canada.

In addition to fighting to pass anti-trash legislation that would ban landfill expansions, House Democrats have been fighting to pass a plan that would attack the economics of waste.

We want trash companies to pay $7.50 per ton of trash, the highest dumping charge in the nation. Higher even than Pennsylvania's, whose $7.25-per-ton charge has been widely credited with helping that state cut imported trash by 14 percent, or 1.5 million tons. That's more than 100 fewer trash trucks tearing through Pennsylvania. The dumping charge is working in Pennsylvania. It can work in Michigan.

For two decades, waste companies have dumped in our state with impunity, without a thought for the long-term costs to our neighborhoods, to our land, to our water, to our way of life. They have done so because, for two decades, it has cost them about two thin dimes for every ton of garbage they drop into our landfills. In the calculus of the trash trade, this is the textbook definition of maximizing profit margins. Instead of dumping in Pennsylvania, where each ton of trash will cost them $7.25, these companies now route their trucks and their trains to landfills across Michigan, drawn to our state because these companies want to keep dumping for 21 cents per ton.

Waste companies have gotten filthy rich from the garbage trade. But consider this: We pay to keep our state beautiful. We pay to use our parks. We pay to hunt and to fish. We pay to use our campsites. We pay to keep our neighborhoods beautiful, to maintain our roads, to sustain our infrastructure. In short, we invest time, money and the deep love we have for our state to keep Michigan beautiful.

The cost of letting imported garbage fester like a sore in our state is too high.

Together, we must put a lid on Canadian and out-of-state trash. □

RHS Math Fair = Learning Fun

A Math Fair organized by Romulus High School teacher Marci Shafer's precalculus class this spring was deemed a "total" success by those who participated. The program was intended to create stimulating lessons that would make it fun and easy for students to master advanced math concepts that may sometimes seem dull or difficult.

Shafer began by having each of her students choose a specific math concept, then invent a game, design a display board, and develop a presentation to illustrate the concept in a unique and entertaining manner. The completed projects were organized into a "fair" to which other RHS students were invited.

"The Math Fair was a creative way to learn about math," said Shafer. "It showed that math problems can be easy and interesting if you look at them from a fresh perspective with the help of specialized presentations."

The innovative assignment required students to hone more than just their math abilities.

"The fair gave my precalculus students an opportunity to work on their presentation skills, and also gave them a chance to see what teaching is all about, since they had to teach others about their chosen math concept," Shafer explained.

"In fact," she added, "several of the students said that they really enjoyed teaching their topics, and would definitely consider teaching as a future career choice."

Among the many imaginative projects that were submitted by Shafer's students were a dart game that Sandra Harris devised to teach a lesson on polar coordinates, as well as Amanda Kreutzer's "treasure hunt" game, which taught players about the angular measurement units of degrees, minutes, and seconds, and then had them use their new knowledge to find their way around a map of the Spanish Main in search of pirate plunder. □

The Romulus High School Drama Club presentation of Geoffrey Chaucer's The Canterbury Tales received a standing ovation from large crowds after both performances at the RHS auditorium. The Drama Club's version of The Canterbury Tales was a modern-day adaptation by Lindsay Price that used modern English with the addition of some modern humor.

Price's version of The Canterbury Tales is a story about seven pilgrims and a tavern hostess who set out on a pilgrimage to the shrine of Thomas Beckett in Canterbury, England. The pilgrims, each representing a different social sphere, tell stories to entertain each other, with the best storyteller to win a meal at the expense of the others. The characters encounter many hardships along the road, and find a variety of life's pleasures and challenges on their journey.

"The two-and-a-half-hour play kept audience members on the edge of their seats, and was extremely well done throughout," said district spokesperson Dick Kruse. "All actors and actresses knew their lines, and delivered them with professional aplomb. Student diction and projection were also first-class during all eight of the tales.

"The superb performance was augmented by outstanding costume and scenery/prop work, as well as a stage crew that functioned with precision timing," he added.

Kruse said he was additionally impressed by the efforts of staff director Shannon Collum Mullins, production crew advisor Christina Witt-Dobski, costume designers Sue Hurt and Ann Lammers, student director Sara Hurt, and stage director Megan Bearman, all of whom did a fantastic job.

"Their dedication, along with the dedication of the entire cast, was evident throughout the performance," he noted.

"Everyone in Romulus can be truly proud of this RHS Drama Club presentation," Kruse concluded. □

Romulus High School Athletics Brunch Honors Senior Athletes

Romulus Community Schools Athletics Director Mark Woodson was pleased to honor 51 senior athletes from Romulus High School at the annual Senior Athletics Brunch, held at the Doubletree Hotel. The athletes, who were recognized for their participation in sports during their RHS careers, attended the special program with their parents, coaches, and members of the Romulus Board of Education.

Guests were treated to a buffet brunch, video highlights of senior athletes, and a rousing speech by Dr. Clarence Underwood, a former Athletics Director at Michigan State University.

"Dr. Underwood talked about overcoming obstacles in life and never giving up," said Romulus Community Schools spokesperson Dick Kruse. "He gave the example of Abraham Lincoln, who twice went broke in business, and lost a long string of elections for local and national office before winning the presidency in 1860."

Underwood also gave a narrative on his own background, describing how he had to walk five miles to school each day and do his homework by candlelight in rural Alabama.

"You will have times when somebody or some event will knock you down, but you just have to be able to get up and try harder," he told the athletes. "Don't make any excuses, and don't blame anybody else; just get up and do it."

Dr. Underwood received a standing ovation after his speech.

RCS Athletics Director Woodson expressed his appreciation to his coaching staff, Athletics Department secretary Paula Smith, members of the Romulus Board of Education, RHS Principal Dan Hurst, and RHS head custodian Bill Garland for their support of the district's athletics program.

"We have a great number of talented athletes and outstanding teams that compete favorably for state-level Division I championships," Woodson said. "I look forward to working with everybody next year, and hopefully we can bring some more team and individual championships to the Romulus community in the future."

State Division I championships were won this year by RHS senior Brittany Howard, who set a new Division State Meet record of 18'8" in the long jump, and by the men's 800m relay team of Darryl White, Mario Crawford, Donzell Carter, and Shane Wells, who won their event in 1 minute, 28.05 seconds.

All-State designations were also earned by RHS students Tamila Myles (second, 800m), Aurielle McCauley (second, 300m hurdles), and Shane Wells (second in 110m hurdles and 300m hurdles).

Athletics Director Woodson additionally honored 10 senior athletes for 4 years of varsity-level participation in various sports. These honorees included Lindsay Beregsasy (softball), Landria Buckley (track), Brian DeMoisey (baseball), Dean Gilbert (golf), Jennifer Hunter (tennis), Courtney MacDougall (soccer), Justin Maupin (lacrosse), Chelsea Smith (softball), Jeremy Trevorow (soccer), and Joshua Zirkle (cross country). □

UM, Romulus Schools Join Up for Special Filmmaking Project

The University of Michigan and the Romulus Community Schools are currently collaborating to produce a special film, according to district spokesperson Dick Kruse.

"Bilal's Stand is a true-story movie that explores the theme of social mobility vs. community abandonment," Kruse explained. "It focuses on the life of an inner-city high-school senior and his family's longtime taxi-stand business, which has been the family's main focus of activity and primary source of income for the last 60 years."

"The family wants Bilal to carry on with the family business, but he takes up ice-carving and wins a college scholarship," he continued. "Bilal is thus forced to decide whether he will continue working at 'The Stand,' or pursue a college degree and higher empowerment."

Many of the film's scenes are being shot at Romulus High School, where Culinary Arts Department head Charles Usztics has inspired dozens of students to enter (and take top prizes in) the annual Plymouth Ice-carving Competition. Usztics, who was named National Culinary Arts Teacher of the Year by a leading professional journal in 2005, will be featured in the movie, which is being directed by Sultan Sharrieff, an RHS alumnus who founded the UM Ice-carving Team.

"Sharrieff has been active in the arts programming community as a producer of The Spiral Project (a 35mm feature film), filmmaker of Mural (a documentary about the University of Michigan rugby team's trip to Thailand to help with tsunami relief), and a producer of Fulfill a Hanking (a 25-minute, 16mm film)," noted Kruse. "He has also served as a student representative to arts organizations such as the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs and the Cool

RHS alum Sultan Sharrieff (left), director of Bilal's Stand, talked with University of Michigan filmmaking professor Terri Sarris, who is leading her class in the production of the film.

Cities Conference. His résumé additionally includes two years as an intern for the Ann Arbor Film Festival, and three years as assistant director for the Arts on the Hill program."

Kruse said that the making of Bilal's Stand is an EFEX (Encouraging the Filmmaking Experience) project.

"EFEX allows for an exchange of ideas and experiences between university students and community members," he explained. "The project focuses on combining filmmaking with service learning, and serves as a new model for interaction between UM and the Detroit-area creative-arts community."

EFEX project organizers are asking for donations of food to help support the 30-member cast and crew during the filmmaking period, which will extend through August 11. To contribute, contact Sharrieff (ssharrie@umich.edu) or Mark Hickner (Hickner@umich.edu/989-992-4396). □

Obituary

Edouard Kesner

Edouard Kesner of Romulus, Michigan, passed away on Tuesday, June 27, 2006, at the age of 86.

Edouard, who grew up in New York City, made his performance debut at the age of 7, playing the Paginini Violin Concerto with the Stamford Symphony (CT) and receiving rave reviews. The graduate of the Juilliard School of Music studied with Aaron Hirsch, Samuel Gardner, Leopold Auer, and Jacque Fracht.

A musician of widely contrasting talent, Edouard was equally at home in either the classic or jazz idiom, and played other instruments such as the piano, trombone, and viola. He had performed frequently on radio and television, and had been involved in many recordings. Over the years, he played with Les Brown and the Dorsey Brothers as well as the St. Louis, Baltimore, and Chautauqua symphonies, and performed under such great conductors as Bruno Walter, Erich Leinsdorf, Vladimir Golschmann, Leopold Stokowski, and Paul Paray.

In 1951, Edouard was invited by Mischa Mischakoff to play principal second violin in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, a position he held for 35 years. He also had been concert master of the Dearborn Orchestra during its 30 years. Other career highlights included teaching at both Oakland and Wayne State universities; working on the staff at Motown Records; and playing with the NBC Symphony under Arturo Toscanini, one of the most famous "world-class" conductors who ever lived.

Edouard is survived by his wife, Martha (O'Brien) Kesner; a son, Howard (Alice) Kesner; 4 grandchildren; and a great-grandchild.

Among those who preceded him in passing was his first wife, Rosalind (Fogel) Kesner.

A memorial service for Edouard was held on Friday, June 30, at the Community United Methodist Church (Romulus).

Arrangements were entrusted to Crane Funeral Home (Romulus). □
